RETROSPECTIVE.

When the helpless state of man, if left in his natural condition, is considered, he, of all the animal creation, will be found most in want of society. By means of well regulated society the weakness of man is protected, his wants are relieved, his misfortunes alleviated, and his moral nature improved.

Society at large is highly benefitted by every institution which has a tendency to promote private friendship; the just observance of which gradually enlarges the mind and humanizes the heart. Friendship at first is confined within a very narrow compass; extending its care and attention to a few individuals. The sentiments of benevolence produced by such intercourse, soon beget a strong inclination in the human mind to extend the bounds of friendship; societies of particular ranks and descriptions of men are formed; new sources of benevolence are discovered; the understanding is improved; and at length generous sentiments of friendship to all mankind arise amongst those who at first associated only to extend their friendship to the natives of some particular spot of the earth. Minds thus prepared, consider the human race but as one society, and the wants and misfortunes of every individual equally entitled to compassion and relief.

On the 17th day of January, in the year 1786, a number of natives of the Kingdom of Ireland, inhabitants of the Town of Halifax, in the Province of Nova Scotia, (sensibly feeling the obligations which they owed to society, and zealously wishing to promote and encourage friendship and good will amongst men), held a meeting at the house of Mr. John O'Brien, in Halifax, and signed Articles of Association for the purpose of relieving the wants and misfortunes of their countrymen, which association was styled THE CHARITABLE IRISH SOCIETY.

The first regular meeting of the Charitable Irish Society was held on the seventeenth of February, 1786: a Constitution was adopted, and the following officers were elected:—

President,—Richard John Uniacke.

Vice-President,—Thomas Cochran.

Assistant Vice-President,—George William Sherlock.

Treasurer,—Charles Hill.

Secretary,—Gerald Fitzgerald.

Experience proving the utility of such a Society, its funds and numbers rapidly increased and the Society finding that the original Articles of Association were in many respects insufficient to govern the Society in its improved and enlarged state, CHARLES HILL and RICHARD JOHN UNIACKE, Esquires, were on the 17th day of May, in the year 1794, appointed a Committee, to review and examine the former Articles, and to report a new set of Constitutions for the future regulation of the Society.

On the 17th day of February, in the year 1795, at the Anniversary meeting of the Society, at Mr. Gallagher's, in the Town of Halifax, the Committee made its report, and a special meeting of the Society was ordered to be held on the 25th of March following for the consideration thereof; on which day the Society having met and considered the report of the Committee, a Constitution for the future regulation of the CHARITABLE IRISH SOCIETY was adopted and agreed to be observed by all its members.

In 1823 a committee, composed of Messrs. Bartholomew Hackett, Beamish Murdoch and Benjamin Salter, was appointed to revise the constitution and prepare a list of the members of the Society since its foundation, a duty which they performed to the satisfaction of the Society and for which they received its thanks.

In 1836 the Society celebrated its fiftieth anniversary in an appropriate manner, and elected the late Honorable Joseph Howe to the presidency, an office which he filled for three successive years.

A committee was appointed on the seventeenth of May, 1852, to revise the constitution; and the report of the committee was adopted on the seventeenth of August, 1853.

A committee to revise the constitution was appointed on the eighteenth of August, 1862, whose report was adopted on the second of February, 1863.

In 1864 the Society was incorporated by an Act of the Legislature; and a silver seal, costing ten pounds, was purchased.

The constitution was again revised in 1879.

On the seventeenth of January, 1886, the Society celebrated the centenary of its institution. There was an oration at the Academy of Music in the afternoon, delivered by the Honorable Thomas P. Gargan of Boston, and a banquet at Masonic Hall in the evening, at which some two hundred guests were present and a number of eloquent and appropriate speeches were delivered.

At the Society's quarterly meeting held on the seventeenth of May, 1887, the President, the Honorable James Butler, announced that the late Honorable Sir William Young had bequeathed ten thousand dollars to trustees who were to pay the income arising therefrom to the Society half-yearly, "to be applied to the general purposes of its benevolent and charitable work."

On the nineteenth of November, 1888, the Honorable L. G. Power, Mr. D. F. Power, the Secretary (Mr. A. B. Crosby), Mr. W. J. Butler, and Mr. W. A. Lyons, were appointed a committee to revise the constitution.

At the annual meeting held on the seventeenth of February, 1890, a letter from the executors of the late Honorable James Butler was read, announcing that their testator had bequeathed one thousand dollars to them in trust to pay the income therefrom to the Society half-yearly, so long as it should continue to exist.

On the seventeenth of February, 1891, the committee appointed at the meeting of November, 1888, to revise the constitution, submitted their report, which was finally adopted at the annual meeting held on the seventeenth of February, 1892.
